

Peter Ryan

Senior Analyst (PGMs)

Peter joined Thomson Reuters GFMS in 2003 with a brief to extend the company's research into the platinum group metals (PGMs) and create its annual Platinum & Palladium Survey, which commenced publication in 2004. With the annual survey well established, Peter has focussed more recently on the development of our forecasting capability in this field and has played a leading role in providing our customers with a unique range of forward looking research products.

Peter has an extensive knowledge and understanding of the precious metals industry, developed through his time with us and a career with Johnson Matthey (JM) spanning nearly thirty years. Before joining us, Peter was head of commercial operations for JM's gold and silver refining business, having also held senior positions there in marketing and sales, customer service, business development and strategic planning.
